Hatboro Resident Named Assistant Professor at Salus University

Elkins Park, Pa. – Hatboro resident Darryl M. Horn, Ph.D., has been appointed assistant professor of Basic and Biomedical Sciences at Salus University. In addition to his teaching, laboratory and small group instruction responsibilities, he will be actively involved in clinical education in regard to patient care, research and scholarship and support of the various health programs at Salus, which include the Pennsylvania College of Optometry, the Osborne College of Audiology, the Physician Assistant program and Graduate Studies in Biomedicine in the College of Health Sciences.

Prior to joining the faculty, Dr. Horn served as a consultant at Salus, as well as his most recent position as an assistant professor of Biological and Physical Sciences at Keystone College in La Plume, Pa. He received his Ph.D. in biochemistry and molecular biology from the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine, his master's degree in microbiology from the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh, and his bachelor's degree in biology from the University of Wisconsin Stevens Point. After receiving his Ph.D., he did postdoctoral research at the Scripps Research Institute in Jupiter, Fl.
