

For Immediate Release
September 27, 2017

Contact: Harriet Goodheart
215-780-1487
215-219-7877 (cell)

Woolwich Township Resident Named Director of Institutional Research and Assessment at Salus University

Elkins Park, Pa. – Gregory D. Benjamin, PhD, MPH of Woolwich Township, N.J., has been appointed director of Institutional Research and Assessment at Salus University in Elkins Park, Pa.

In this role, he will provide leadership and direction for the University's institutional assessment, research and strategic planning. Dr. Benjamin brings a decade of experience to the position. Prior to joining Salus, he was an assistant professor in Temple University's College of Public Health in the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics. Previously, he served as director of Quality Improvement and Planning for a non-profit social service agency in New Jersey. He also served as a senior research associate in the School District of Philadelphia's Office of Research & Evaluation.

Dr. Benjamin earned his bachelor's degree in biology from King's College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., his master of public health from Drexel University's Dornsife School of Public Health and his Ph.D. from the University of Delaware with a concentration in health policy and evaluation.

About Salus University

Salus University, founded as the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in 1919, today is a diversified, globally recognized professional academic center of learning that offers a wide range of degree programs in the professions of Optometry, Audiology, Physician Assistant, Public Health, Blindness and Low Vision Studies, Biomedicine, Occupational Therapy and Speech-Language Pathology. Salus operates four clinical facilities in the Philadelphia area that provide highly specialized vision, hearing and balance, and speech-language pathology services. The University has more than 1,200 students, including PhD candidates, and more than 11,300 alumni worldwide. For more information, please visit www.salus.edu.