

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
February 13, 2017

CONTACT: Cathy Shea
856-642-6226 ext. 16

The Eye Institute of Salus University Opens Clinical Facility in Norristown

(Norristown, Pa.) – The Eye Institute (TEI) of Salus University, in collaboration with Delaware Valley Community Health, Inc. (DVCH), has opened a satellite clinical facility in Norristown, Pa. TEI's Norristown satellite will serve as the fourth clinical location for the University's Pennsylvania College of Optometry (PCO) doctorate program. Under the supervision of Salus/PCO faculty, optometry students will offer adult and pediatric eye care and contact lens evaluations. Dr. Michelle Rivera, who brings with her more than a decade of optometric experience, will be the main provider.

The clinical facility is located at DVCH's Norristown Regional Health Center at 1401 DeKalb Street. The Health Center offers a wide variety of services, including adult and pediatric primary care, dentistry, an on-site medication dispensary and more.

Dr. Rivera, a fluent Spanish speaker said, "I look forward to helping future optometrists cultivate their skills and hope we can positively impact the Norristown community. I am passionate about assisting Spanish speakers and excited to have this opportunity to be an instructor."

To schedule an appointment in the Norristown satellite, call 610-278-7787.

About Salus University

Salus University, founded as the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in 1919, today is a diversified, globally recognized professional academic center of learning that offers a wide range of degree programs in the professions of Optometry, Audiology, Physician Assistant, Public Health, Education and Rehabilitation for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Biomedicine, Occupational Therapy and Speech-Language Pathology. Salus operates four clinical facilities in the Philadelphia area that provide highly specialized vision, hearing and balance, and speech-language pathology services. The University has more than 1,200 students, including PhD candidates, and more than 14,300 alumni worldwide. For more information, please visit www.salus.edu.

###