Dr. Mark Krakauer to Discuss a Comprehensive Approach to Thyroid Eye Disease at Salus University Grand Rounds Program

Elkins Park, Pa. – On Friday, June 24 from 7:30 to 8:45 a.m., oculofacial plastic and orbital surgeon Mark Krakauer, MD, MPhil, will discuss a comprehensive approach to thyroid eye diseases as part of the Salus University Pennsylvania College of Optometry (PCO) Grand Rounds program at The Eye Institute. Open to local eyecare providers at no charge, the goals of the Grand Rounds program are to develop a network of professionals to share information and strengthen clinical knowledge, to foster professional development in the optometric community and to provide continuing education opportunities.

Dr. Krakauer, assistant professor of clinical ophthalmology at the Lewis Katz School of Medicine at Temple University and an associate at Lehigh Valley Center for Sight in Allentown and Bethlehem Pennsylvania. He has been published in several publications and is a diplomat of the American Board of Ophthalmology

Dr. Krakauer attended the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland and graduated with honors from the University of Chicago with a bachelor's degree in biology. He received a Master of Philosophy in International Development from the University of Oxford in the United Kingdom and a Doctor of Medicine with distinction in research from Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York. He completed an ophthalmology residency at Illinois Eye and Ear Infirmary in Chicago and an ophthalmic plastic and reconstructive surgery fellowship at Indiana University and the University of Louisville.
