Eastampton Resident Named Clinical Educator at Salus University

Elkins Park, Pa. – Judith Koza, MA, CCC-SLP, resident of Eastampton, New Jersey was recently named a clinical educator at the Speech-Language Institute (SLI) of Salus University.

In her new role, Koza will also oversee speech-language pathology students in Salus University's College of Education and Rehabilitation as they work with clients at SLI.

"We're so appreciative that Judy is bringing her knowledge and skills to the campus environment," said Robert Serianni, MS, CCC-SLP, SLI clinical director.

She will also facilitate 'Raise Your Voice' – a new support group created to assist those in the transgender community with voice and communication skills.

"We hope to encourage the use of voice techniques, non-verbal communication strategies and provide a supportive social forum for the transgender community," Koza said.

Koza earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in Linguistics and English from the University of Rochester and her Master of Arts degree in Speech-Language Pathology from Case Western Reserve University in Ohio.

With more than 35 years of experience as a speech-language pathologist (SLP), Koza has extensive knowledge and skills in assessing and treating voice disorders in various populations.
